

Is Homework Necessary

I strongly believe that homework is not necessary because we have less family time, after school activities and you need to take care of your sibling. And sometimes you can get stressed and we are in school for five hours and forty minutes, and if you play a sport you will have to rush through your homework and get wrong answers

Firstly, homework is a waste of time because you have less time with your family. If you need to go somewhere you will have no time to do homework then you will get in trouble.

Secondly, our teacher has to correct all of the homework in only one day. But in five days he corrects two hundred and sixteen copies. I always feel really sad that he has to correct all of that. If we didn't have homework he will have more time with his family and will have more time to have fun.

Thirdly, if you have siblings you have to take care of them and do homework at the same time so that's very unfair for us. Plus if you have a baby brother or sister they will either scream or crawl to you and start annoying you, and if you do homework on the floor (which is very unlikely) your baby brother or sister will destroy the sheets and you will be in serious trouble.

In conclusion, I strongly believe that there should be less homework because it wastes time being with your family, siblings and sport. In my opinion I think homework should be gone in primary school because it's a waste of time.

So Ms.Doherty can you please make homework gone in this school because children need to have time with their family and plus teachers need some rest from correcting the homework every week.
