

Is Homework Necessary?

By Ava 5th class

I am writing to the principal of CSCNS, that homework is unnecessary. For this reason we spend around five hours in one day and twenty- five hours in five days. It can also make students unhappy, and make them less excited to go home. I will give you three strong reasons why homework is not necessary. Let me introduce you to my first argument.

- Firstly, many students love to have hobbies and afterschool clubs to do. But homework can take too long which takes up a lot of fun, I also think it is very unfair for us. Furthermore, we also get less family time. If we have to go somewhere very important and only a little time left to do your homework you could rush your work. And if you have chores to do you have to do more work.
- Secondly, we are getting older and soon enough we will be teenagers and work much harder. I think it also can take up your childhood experience and effect going outside to get exercise or ruin relationships with seeing friends. I haven't seen my friends for such a long time, as soon as I finish it is too late to leave the house.
- Thirdly, our teacher has a lot of correcting to do, it definitely would be even better if our teacher didn't have to work as hard as students. It can also annoy or sadden children, when it is harder for them to understand or do homework. We only have two days of holiday and five days of school! (We can get very exhausted after a long day)

- And we could remove homework it would make people happier and be fair for teachers at the same time. I fully understand that the teacher spend lots of time out of their day to educate us.

Ms.Doherty, Please consider my pieces of writing as a suggestion to not give us homework anymore. I understand that shortly, you will start composing the CSCNS homework policy. Please add my point of views as a result, I hope you understand my reasons, Have a nice day!
