Is Homework Necessary?

In my opinion homework is not necessary. I think that because you get less friend, sibling and family time, after school activities and less time to play. Who would want less time to play! I really hope you will get persuaed after this text.

Firstly homework is a waste of time because you can't spend time with your family or friend's. If you have a sibling you get less time to play with them or if there younger less time to take care of them. If we wouldn't get homework we would get more time with family and friends. I do not want to have an hour and ten minute more of learning who would ! Family and friends are more important than work.

Secondly if you have an after school activities like me you need to get your homework done fast. If you don't get to finish your homework you need to do it very late at night or wake up early in the morning and do your homework. At school you will be very tired. If you'll get your homework done fast you might get most of your work wrong. Also if you would do your homework late you might get stressed that you won't finish your homework in time.

Thirdly when you get homework you will get less time to play! That is so NOT cool especially when it is a nice weather. What I ment by the weather was that Ireland is not a place for NICE weather.

Going outside is healthy. When you go outside you can run and play it will probably make you sleep better. When you do homework you just get bored and bored and BORED that is the opposite.

Ms.Doherty probably the whole school is begging you to give us no homework. We already have five hours and fifty minutes of school I would say that is enough of learning in one day. I'll say this again were begging you to not give us homework PLEASE.
