

Is Homework Necessary by: Zuki

I strongly believe that homework is not necessary. For example if you have a sibling you can't play with them because you have too much homework. Also you won't have time to spend with your family.

Firstly, if you have a sibling you need to pay attention to them. Like if you have a baby sister or brother they need to have time for them. When you finish your homework you will be like "finally I can watch TV" then your mom says "oh sorry it's time for bed maybe next time".

Secondly, you need some time with your family. Besides its spring you can have picnics with your family. Also it's a hot spring and you need to enjoy it while it lasts before it goes back to Irish weather. I think it's best if we spend time with our family. Mr, Kinsella spends too much time correcting our homework he corrects two-hundred and sixteen copies.

Lastly, some people have sports after school and when they get home they have to do their homework and they finish late. Some people have to go to art and many other sport. We spend too much on homework and we have to spend five hours and forty minutes in school.

In conclusion, there's no doubt that homework is a waste of our time. So please Ms.Doherty consider my opinion about homework. I hope your persuaded by my piece of writing.
